

Wizard as He Looks
Today

The Novel of the Year -- FLAMING YOUTH --

By WARNER FABIAN
A Family Doctor

Page 9

ACCUSE CHIEF AFTER SHOOTING

Today

By ARTHUR
BRISBANE
SEE PAGE
THREE

BOSTON AMERICAN NIGHT EDITION

VOL. 20--No. 73

ESTABLISHED 1870

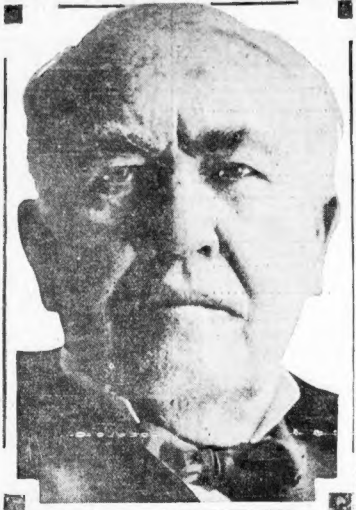

BOSTON, MONDAY, JUNE 11, 1923

NEW ENGLAND

5 CENTS WORTH IT

Lynn Child Forced to Drink Booze

MAYNARD BANK LOTTERY CAUGHT

THOMAS A. EDISON

Photographed by Boston American staff photographer in Mr. Edison's room at the Copple-Piazza. He is here to attend his son's graduation from Tech.

JOB FOR EDISON'S SON-- IF HE TOES THE MARK

By HAROLD R. HALL.

Henry Ford will never be President of the United States. If, by any chance, he should fall into the Presidency the professional politicians and Congressmen will "double-cross" him at every turn and make it impossible for him to do anything.

No less a person than Thomas A.

Edison, the world's electrical wizard, is authority for that statement. He threw up his hands today when asked his opinion. Mr. Edison does not have a particularly high regard for the "politicians and Congressmen." He makes no attempt to hide his feelings, either.

"What do you think are the chances for Mr. Ford as a candidate

Continued on Page 2, Col. 5.

MRS. HOLLIS TELLS OF PLOT; SHE DEFIES BLACKMAILERS

By MRS. W. T. HOLLIS

Blackmail, intrigue and treachery, yes, even worse, frame-ups have been employed by my enemies to trap me, to compromise me so that my husband may get a divorce.

The basest plots imaginable have been directed against me and me even my aged mother has not been immune from the dastardly machinations of those who wish me harm.

Continued on Page 5, Col. 1.

READY TO RENEW IRISH WAR DECLARES MARY MACSWINEY

Dublin, June 11.—Miss Mary MacSwiney, speaking at Kilmenny, said the "Cease Fire" order had been given, but the men who had been fighting were getting ready to do so again if the Irish people attempt to turn down the republic.

She added that they had no right to take such action, asserting that the republic was not beaten and would not be beaten as long as Irish existed.

"LOCAL LAFS" AN EASY WAY TO FAME IN THE MOVIES

How is your funny bone today? All right—then write some Local-Lafs and send them to the Boston American.

It is an easy way to moving picture fame. Don't Local-Lafs of the week will be featured on the screen at your favorite moving picture house in a special film.

Cash prizes will be paid the writers

Continued on Page 2, Col. 6

NEW ENGLAND'S FINEST AND SMARTEST DINING PLACE
MORRIS GARDENS
Formerly Villa Napoli, Nantasket
TEL. BULL 1841
The Most Supreme of N. E.
Brilliant Entertainers
MORRIS PEARL and His Symphony Orchestra
DANCING
SPECIAL SUNDAY CONCERTS

WANTED
Young men for clerical work, hours
11 p. m. to 7 a. m. Apply to
MR. SMITH, fourth floor, Boston
American.

11-YEAR-OLD NEW HEAD BOY MADE OF TECH IS DRUNK

Lynn Lad Declares Three Men Forced Him to Drink at Gun-Point

Eleven-year-old Anthony Wadoski crawled on his hands and knees into the yard of his home, No. 35 Cottage street, Lynn, so drunk he could not walk.

To police who were called by his parents he told of being forced to drink at gun point by three men who discovered him and an eight-year-old companion playing back of the T. A. Kelly leather factory, Summer street, Lynn.

The younger child corroborated Anthony's story and neighbors living near the factory remembered seeing three men around there at the time the children say they were compelled to drink.

When Anthony had recovered sufficiently from the liquor to withstand questioning by Patrolman Henry Hagen he said that he and his chum had been playing when three men came up.

One, the child said, drew out a bottle which he drank from and then told the child to drink. He did, but the liquor choked him. Then, he says, one of the three drew a gun which he pointed at his head.

After he had drunk some and had choked, Anthony says, one of the men hit him over the head with something he drew from his pocket and which the police say may have been a Billy.

GEN. EDWARDS GETS DEGREE IN MAINE

Orono, Me., June 11.—The honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred today on Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, U. S. A., retired, former commander of the Yankee Division, at the 22nd commencement exercises at University of Maine. The commencement address was delivered by General Edwards who took for his subject "The Inspiration of Youth and the Great Lessons of the World War."

FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

Give strength and energy because it is all pure malted wheat—sugar.

HAGEN GETS POOR START IN GOLF TILT

By ROBERT E. MARLOW,
International News Service Special Correspondent.

Troon, Scotland, June 11.—Defending his title against the flower and fauna of the golfing universe, Walter Hagen of New York began the qualifying round of the British open golf championship with an indifferent 82 for the first eighteen holes.

This might mean that he would be shut out of the championship at the outset.

Just what caused Hagen's lapse from form is not known.

Continued on Page 2 Col. 4.

$1,000,000 FIRE LOSS IN PHILADELPHIA TRAIN SHED

Philadelphia, June 11.—Fire early today practically destroyed the train shed of 12 and Street station, the Philadelphia terminus of the Pennsylvania railroad. Passengers fled from the flames.

A quantity of mail and baggage and a number of passenger coaches also were consumed.

Twenty persons, nine passengers were removed to hospital, with minor injuries.

The flames spread westward and did not reach the main building until the waiting rooms and ticket office were threatened.

Continued on Page 2, Col. 3.

JAIL TERM FOR WOMAN WHOSE AUTO KILLED BOY

New York, June 11.—(By International News Service.) Mrs. Lucetta Thompson, woman indicted, convicted of manslaughter for the death of Dominic Leo, 11-year-old boy, run down by her automobile, was sentenced to a term of one to three years in Auburn prison today.

Thompson, who is 34 years old, has been in jail since her conviction last week. She will be taken to Auburn immediately to begin serving her sentence.

AUTHOR GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE FOR THEFT; APPEALS CASE

Ramsey Abbott, author and former Boston newspaper man, alleged to have forced Boston business men out of $1,000, was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction by Judge Dowd in Municipal Court today. He appealed. A number of his alleged victims were in court today to testify.

Abbott represented himself as collecting funds for a New York newspaper to finance a cross-country hike of Boy Scouts, who were to carry a flag from New York to San Francisco as a memorial to Lincoln. He was sentenced on four teen counts.

TODAY'S SCORE CARD

Fenway Park, June 11, 1923.

The Only Evening Paper in Boston to Publish Final Scores of the Ball Games and Daily Battering Averages

Is the Boston American.

(THU)	WHITE SOX	(FRI)	RED SOX
Hooper, c., 167	48 237	Mitchell, s., 108	27 269
McClain, s., 121	36 298	DeVormer, c., 50	16 320
Collins, 2b., 149	55 370	Collins, c., 97	18 186
Mentli, c., 158	51 323	Burns, 1b., 152	56 368
Shawley, 1b., 152	41 370	Harris, 1b., 141	48 326
Elsh, 1b., 109	29 229	Flagstead, r.f., 77	24 312
Kamm, 3b., 151	47 311	Fewster, 2b., 79	15 202
Behak, c., 133	30 226	McMillan, 3b., 116	24 307
Robertson, p., 27	6 222	Ferguson, p., 16	1 083

Team average, 1422 386 271

HOW THE CLUBS WILL STAND TONIGHT

WIN	LOSE
White Sox, 429	408
Red Sox, 439	415

ASKS STATE GIVES SELF PROBE OF SHOOTING

Beverly Aldermen Demand a Full Inquiry Into Wounding of Girl and Boy

President Edward Thompson of the Beverly Board of Aldermen today called a special meeting of that body to investigate the mysterious shooting by a Beverly police officer of Evelyn Spenny and John E. Winston, Lynn High School students, last night.

"I shall ask the board to give me authority to have the affair investigated by the state," he said. "If we can have it investigated by some outside authority we may get an impartial finding and know the truth."

WANTS STATE PROBE.

"I want to ask the Governor to appoint someone to handle the investigation and I want it to include not only the shooting but the whole record of Chief John E. Joyce of the Beverly police."

The whole North Shore is stirred over the shooting. Flying rumors in Lynn, where the Junior League Club, whose function is aid of Lynn, donated the young people were returning from when shot, is a non-sectarian religious society.

Three Lynn men who witnessed the shooting were heard today.

They were in an automobile which

Continued on Page 2, Col. 1. Continued on Page 2, Col. 4.

SOME ROCKLAND STRIKERS VOTE TO RETURN

Rockland, June 11.—Four hundred employees of the Emerson Shoe Co., at a meeting in the Rockland Opera House today, voted almost unanimously to go back to work Tuesday. The vote was followed by an announcement by the officials that the factory, which has been closed by an extension of the Brockton strike, would resume operations tomorrow. Thirty-five strikers, who demanded that the question of resuming work be left to a vote of the whole, left the hall before the final vote was taken. The factory employs about 900.

21,500 YOUTHFUL LIFE SAVERS SOUGHT

Julius John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross Life Savers Corps, has asked the Chapters of the Red Cross in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island to provide 2000 of this corps.

Today

Ed Lasker and Quailan
Figures Do Anything
When Bryan Quotes
He Omits Part

By Arthur Brisbane
Copyright, 1932, Hear Co.

"NEW RADIO devices make talk private." Will there be enough combinations to supply a separate code for each of the earth's sixteen hundred million people? Yes, and ten or a thousand codes for each one.

The alphabet, alone, twisted around in various combinations, makes all the world's books and talk out of twenty-six letters.

Edward Lasker, the chess player, who has been urged to stand, ordered the Sage Quailan in the sixth century. A. D. to invent him a new game. It must be a game called for courage, fortitude, ingenuity, power of intellectual concentration and force from all element of chance. Quailan brought to the king a chess board, with pawns, queen, etc., as we now use them.

THE KING, delighted, said:

"Ask a reward, great Quailan, it shall be yours."

Bumping his head on the ground several times, and hoping the king might live forever, Quailan said:

"I ask for corn, in accordance with the number of squares on this chess board—namely, one grain of corn for the first square, two for the second square, four for the third, sixteen for the fourth, and so on." He bumped his head again, and waited.

"FOOLISH QUAILAN, your request is granted, but why did you not ask for something worth while?"

"Live forever, oh king, and let your royal mathematicians figure out the amount of corn."

Before the mathematicians had multiplied up to the thirtieth square, all the corn in India was exhausted. The total number of grains needed would cover the British Empire with corn four feet deep.

That number amounts to "2 raised to the 63rd power." In other words, write down 18, and add sixteen zeroes thus, 180,000,000,000,000,000, and you have the number of corn grains, one hundred and eighty quadrillions—more than the wealth of the world could buy.

HOW KING HASHIRAN,

whose word was precious, settled that deal in grain with Quailan, the sage, Lasker, worthy successor to Quailan, does not know. But he throws light on man's nature with this fact.

The King, noble soul, wanted a game without chance. But common nature longs for chance, for accident, for something depending on what we foolishly call luck. So in many places, and for many centuries, in Asia especially, men started their chess games as shaking dice. The dice decided which piece the player must move first, thus adding foolish chance to a noble game.

If Mr. Lasker starts his teaching of chess by mail as this writer and others have urged him to do, be sure to join the first class. You will have more than chess from Mr. Lasker.

The figures quoted above are Mr. Lasker's. By the way, it takes

Continued on Page 4, Col. 5.

EDITH K. GOULD ASKS 50-50 DIVISION

EDITH KELLY GOULD
Sues former husband for half of his property, totaling millions.

Paris, June 1 (AP)—Edith Kelly Gould has filed suit in the French courts against Frank J. Gould, her former husband, asking for a division of property. She lists four pieces of real estate, the value of which is set at $1,000,000 francs, and demands also half the remainder of property currently reported to be worth $10,000,000.

According to Mr. Gould's attorney, Charles G. Leach, the suit constitutes the first legal recognition by the former Mrs. Gould of the validity of the long-fought divorce granted Mr. Gould here in 1919, as the present proceedings could only be valid, he alleges, if the divorce were valid.

Mr. Gould was married to Florence Lacaze on February 16 last.

Mr. Leach said the suit was grounded, as his client and the former Mrs. Gould were both Americans and were married in England without legal residence in France at the time of the marriage, but the plaintiff in her suit says it was the intention of herself and Mr. Gould to be subject to the French laws.

Four dependent women attempted suicide, three by drinking iodine and the other by hanging with a belt.

Mrs. Monica Gately, 35 years old, was found hanging by a belt from a bar of iron in the Roxbury Crapshoot police station 15 minutes after she had been locked up on a charge of intoxication.

Two weeks ago when arrested for drunkenness Mrs. Gately tried to strangle herself with a piece of shoe string. She is now at City Hospital and will live.

Mary Moretti, twenty-two years old, of No. 71 Pine street, Swampscott, attempted suicide by drinking iodine when a man she loved ignored her for another girl at a party she had arranged for him in her home.

Miss Moretti withdrew from the group of young folk when she saw her plan to win him had failed, and returning with a half-empty bottle in her hand, cried out: "I don't want to live any more after what has happened tonight." She fell to the floor unconscious.

At the Lynn Hospital it is believed she will recover. The girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nina Moretti and is employed as a showmaker.

"All get dependent occasionally. My turn came tonight," declared Mrs. Ruth Elder, 36 years old, of 74 Compton street, South End, who is at City Hospital. She had drunk the contents of a four-ounce bottle of iodine.

"Family trouble brought it on," she continued, "my husband and I have been at odds for some time and I became discouraged and decided to end it all. I regret doing it now."

Glades County, 18 years old, colored, of No. 272 Tremont street, Roxbury, drank the contents of a small bottle of iodine in the doorway of No. 10 Leves street, Roxbury.

WIFE BURNS TO DEATH PREPARING SUPPER

Goshen, N. H., June 11.—Sarah J. Goshen, 37-year-old widow, wife of Joseph Goshen, was burned to death while lighting a fire to prepare supper. Her clothes were on fire when she was in the house and the returning husband found her dead upon the floor.

BOSTON AMERICAN

BOSTON, MONDAY, JUNE 11, 1932

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

FIND SLAIN NURSE'S 'LOVE NEST'

Thousands Homeless in Floods

OUR AGES SLAIN GIRL'S TUE, SAYS CROKER

BOSS'S SON Declares Investigation Showed Woman Who Wed Father Was Unfit

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
DUBLIN, June 11 (I. N. S.)—Richard Croker, Jr., testifying today in the will contest brought by the children of the late Richard Croker, Sr., former leader of Tammany in New York, declared he had not made charges of immorality against his father's second wife until his investigation had convinced him they were true.

Croker admitted he was unable to find Bula Croker's marriage certificate, nor could he locate Guy Malone, the man he alleged his step-mother was married to when she married his father.

Richard after twelve hours of testimony admitted that he had not been questioning his mother from United States to Ireland.

Thomas Fleming, one of the witnesses of the contested will, swore that he had no recollection of seeing her. He testified that Mrs. Bula Croker was very bitter toward her husband's children by his first marriage.

MAN'S CLOTHES IN ROOM

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

The crime was committed Friday night, on Saturday, Mandel, living at 19 George St., New York, was questioned by the police.

He explained that he had not been in the room since the night of the crime, and that he had not seen the body of the slain nurse.

Investigation, however, showed that Mandel had been in the room on the night of the crime, and that he had seen the body of the slain nurse.

He is the son and partner of Daniel Mandel, who manufactures of furniture, and is now in the city of New York.

After Lillian, Philip's sister, left the home of 19 George St., New York, on 24 West 42nd street, she found the body of the slain nurse in the room of the Kill you know.

A search of her room revealed several articles, including a pair of shoes, a handbag, and a pair of gloves, which were found in the room of the slain nurse.

Rest Your Eyes
Read the Green
Advice of Oculists

People Driven From Homes as Water Sweeps Over Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas

Kansas City, Mo., June 11 (AP)—With at least five persons reported killed, thousands driven from their homes, and property damage estimated in the millions of dollars, many districts in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas are flooded today.

Torrential rains over Kansas for the last three days raised rivers and smaller streams to overflow, depositing crops in the lowlands and in whole residential and business sections in several towns.

The northern half of Oklahoma virtually is inundated, with the flooding, into millions and still greater damage forecast.

Residents in the lowlands of the Trinity River at Fort Worth, Texas, have been preparing to abandon their homes after heavy rains in West Texas raised the river to 25 feet, with a continued rise of some inches per hour.

Arkansas City and Wafford, Kas., suffered greatly. Three thousand persons were declared homeless in Arkansas City, in an appeal by the Mayor for outside aid. His estimated flood damage there at 12,000,000. Both the Arkansas and Walnut Rivers are out of their banks there and a large residential section of the city is flooded. Five thousand persons were marooned last night in a schoolhouse and other buildings.

CITY IS MENACED

Winfield reported several hundred persons homeless.

In the lowlands of the Arkansas, Canadian and Illinois rivers, farmers were moving their families to the hills.

Four Waterbury Falls, where the three rivers converge, the farmers were digging their potato crops, ready to raise with the incoming flood.

Mid Creek, which flows by Pawhuska, Okla., was rising six inches an hour, at 1:30 o'clock this morning, and was only four feet from the top of the levee, which protects the city.

There is no danger of a flood at Kansas City, although the Kaw and Missouri rivers are rising.

WOULD ALLOW ALIEN SHIPS TO BRING RUB

New York, June 10.—If we are to avoid friction with the shipping nations of the world, we must make a decision.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United States must make a decision whether or not to allow alien ships to bring rubber into the country.

The United

CONVENTION OF MASONIC CLUBS OPENS BUSY WEEK IN BOSTON

BALL TONIGHT TO PRECEDE AN ELABORATE PARADE

Thousands of Masons, arriving here to attend the annual convention of the National League of Masonic Clubs this week, were welcomed in the Hub today. Merchants in the business district of the city decorated the stores as a mark of respect for the visitors.

James Moore, president of the Boston Masonic Club, gave a luncheon to the visiting Masons at the Hotel Marlborough. The event was held at the hotel for two years and elaborate preparations for the week's activities have been made.

A feature of the festivities will be a parade Wednesday night. Mayor Curley will review the parade from a stand in front of the City Hall. He will have as his guests in the reviewing stand 400 card and infirm members of the Masonic bodies of Boston who are unable to march.

The National League of Masonic Clubs is an affiliation of about 400 Masonic Clubs throughout the United States and has a total membership of about 400,000. Some 100 official delegates of the body are in Boston tonight for the convention. Several alternate delegates, club members and their families are here to take part in the convention activities.

MANY ATTEND CHURCH.
Convention headquarters is located at the Huntington Chambers at No. 29 Huntington avenue. Meetings will be held at the Copple-Piana. The week's festivities opened Saturday night with a "Night Before" celebration at the headquarters of the Boston Masonic Club at No. 433 Beacon street. Hundreds of the visiting Masons were the guests of the Boston Club. On Sunday morning the visitors attended church services in large groups.

LEA BY POLICE.
A ball at the Copple-Piana tonight will mark the opening of the week's events. Visitors devoted the morning and afternoon of the day to visiting historic points of interest. Business sessions will begin tomorrow evening. The Pop concert in Symphony Hall will be enjoyed. On the occasion the National League of Masonic Clubs music will be played for the first time.

The convention committee in charge of the arrangements is headed by Mr. Terhune and includes Mr. Walter Horton, Henry H. W. Lewis, George S. Webster, H. A. Whitcomb of Salem, P. H. Kimball of Boston, R. P. Whitcomb of Nahant, H. H. Chute of Dedham, John S. Baker of Beverly, Subcommissions are headed by Charles H. Baggis, Samuel, Frederick H. Baggis, president, Ralph L. Baggis, secretary, P. O. Clark, treasurer.

Get Your Money's Worth
Invest in Brass pipe plumbing.
You can buy Brass piping for nearly the same first cost as iron or steel plumbing.
Ask your Plumber.
Iron or steel pipe rusts smaller each year. Clogs. Leaks. Has to be ripped out and renewed. It costs 10 times as much to rip out and renew plumbing pipe as it does to install good pipe in the first place.
Insist on Brass plumbing pipe in your house.
Brass never rusts. Brass plumbing will outlast the building.
Brass and Copper are cheaper because you pay for them only ONCE.
How to save plumbing bills. Write for book, "Economy Plumbing," Free.

COPPER & BRASS
BEST PIPE ASSOCIATION
100 West 11th St. New York

Spurns America

Arthur L. Rice, recipient of Thomas J. Valentine credentials, William H. Hartley, recipient of George S. Webster credentials, and W. S. Cummings, International, Eugene A. Richardson, receiving, W. S. Cummings, program, Alfred L. DeNoy, International, Karl R. White, and Walter P. O'Brien, Order of DeMolay, Francis G. Hanson, press, Jacob H. Moore.

The Wednesday afternoon parade will be headed by mounted police who are members of the United Officers in the parade will be: Major General Clarence R. Edwards and staff, the Boston Commandery, Band of fifty pieces, the New York police band, the New York Firemen's Club and band, and many bands accompanying other clubs and societies.

The convention will close with the annual banquet in the Copple-Piana Saturday evening. Governor Cox, Lieutenant Governor Fuller, Mayor Curley and other prominent State and city officials will be guests.

HILL BALKS AT RETURNING TO BOSTON
Whittington, Del. June 11.—Thomas Hill of Boston, who declared last week he is the slayer of Paymaster John J. Willis of the Boston Navy Bureau, is attempting to shield some other person.

This is the belief of Sergeant Campbell of the Boston Police Department, who questioned Hill for an hour and a half in the City Court Workhouse, where he has just begun to serve a three-year sentence for burglary.

Hill would neither repeat the statement that he had killed the paymaster, nor implicate anyone else. "I'll talk later, but I hate to make trouble for anyone," he said.

DRINKING ON MURDER DAY.
Before leaving for Boston, Sergeant Campbell said he was satisfied with the results of the questioning, and that after a conference with District Attorney O'Brien in Boston, he would probably return and question Hill further.

DANCER TURNS BACK AS U. S. BARS MOTHER

New York, June 11.—A pretty Hungarian dancer, who has been down at Buenos Aires, Montevideo and other day capitals of South America, was deported because she could not enter this country without her mother.

Margit Trebs, seventeen, and her mother, Mrs. Emma Kisch, are now on their way back to Buenos Aires on the liner Western World. The older woman was barred because the Hungarian quota was exhausted. The girl could have entered, had she chosen, as an artist.

"But America would mean nothing to me without mother," she said, "send her away, if that is the mandate of American civilization, but send her with me."

The girl and her mother spent weeks in the detention quarters at Ellis Island and Miss Trebs contracted scarlet fever. For another month she was critically ill in a hospital and when she recovered she was informed that her appeal for her mother had been rejected.

TECH NEW HEAD INAUGURATED
Continued from First Page.
work of one mind, or of one branch of science. At every finish a fresh start was made, resulting in higher efficiency.

Those distractions, he said, were chosen from utilities which we come in daily contact, and have become so familiar to us that we lose sight of the time and thought and effort that have gone into the perfecting of them.

A hundred years ago, he said, a famous English physicist was asked by a Farman colleague to show his laboratory. A servant brought into the room on a tray, Dr. Strutt compared this with the great, elaborately equipped laboratories of today. Those who have made these great laboratories possible by gifts of money and effort are to be congratulated for their wisdom and foresight. One single discovery may be worth many times the value of the laboratory. The leader who accomplishes results that make other and greater things possible inspires others to begin.

Among the distinguished leaders of this type, he said, are the men who have carried on the work of the institute in the past. There could be no greater incentive to those who follow the accomplishments of these great men than one so appropriately expressed in the motto: Alia Via Est.

TODAY

Continued from First Page.
a chess mind to play with such quills as 189 quadrillions.

THE BEAUTY OF quoting authorities is this: You can take what you want from your authority and leave the rest. Who knows it better than William Jennings Bryan, as sincere and honest a man as ever believed in his own opinions on things about which he could not possibly know anything?

For instance, Mr. Bryan says that to teach Darwin's evolution is a crime, an insult to human intelligence and an affront to Providence.

Why? Because the Bible says it animals and man were created in six days which would not allow time for evolution. Mr. Bryan believes that God named us at a time the various species and varieties of mammals, birds, reptiles, fishes, insects, insects, microbes and germs of all kinds.

The varieties are so numerous that it would take more than six days to name them all taking a top speed. But that only demands another miracle of fact.

Then Mr. Bryan says Darwin must be a liar because the Bible seems opposed to his views. Mr. Bryan denounces wine as even more criminal than evolution. If you ask him why divine power was used to change water into wine and save the wedding guests from drinking plain water—probably infected with germs never found in wine—he brushes your question aside as trivial. "The Lord just made a mistake, that was all."

Thus Mr. Bryan knows more about evolution than Darwin, more than many clergymen that combine piety with education, and Mr. Bryan knows more about wine than the founder of Christianity, who drank wine, and supplied it, by a miracle, in time of need.

It is the same with politics. Mr. Bryan, self-chosen protector of religion and the Democratic party, rebukes Governor Smith of New York, because Governor Smith signed a bill depriving prohibition of State enforcement. In his attack on the legislature of Virginia, Mr. Bryan quotes Thomas Jefferson.

But Mr. Bryan does not quote Jefferson on the drink question. Jefferson "advocated the use and encouragement of light wine and beer. He demanded removal of all taxes and restrictions from the sale and raising their families. He wrote to the Legislature of Virginia highly recommending a man who wanted to start a brewery."

Light wine and beer, according to Jefferson, would take the place—harmlessly—of whiskey, which, said Jefferson, kills half the men and ruins their families.

If Jefferson were here now he would be fighting against absolute prohibition and Mr. Bryan must know it. Jefferson would be for untaxed beer and light wine. Jefferson had seen wine and beer drinking in Europe and whiskey drinking in America and knew the difference between wine and beer and whiskey. He had given all three a fair trial, by the way.

Mr. Bryan never tasted any one of the three, but does not doubt he knows more than Jefferson about beer, just as he knows more than the worker at the wedding feast miracle about wine and more than Darwin about evolution.

IN HIS REBUKE TO Governor Smith Mr. Bryan says one thing, however, that is sound. "Wait till the women speak on prohibition," says he.

Women vote, women hate saloons and whiskey, as well they may. Women believe that any modification of extreme prohibition would bring back the saloon and would not drive out whiskey.

Those now young will be old before prohibition can be much changed with women voting. The eighteenth amendment, modified by ever growing bootlegging, is this country's destiny. So plan for that.

DANCES FOR 217 HOURS IN NINE-DAY CONTEST

St. Louis, June 11.—Bernie Brand, shuffler for nine days, the sole survivor of 22 persons entered in the contest, which started June 1, died of 195 hours in the National Round won $500 in prize.

CYCLONE RUINS $100,000 PEACH CROP IN GEORGIA

Monticello, Ga., June 11.—The damage, chiefly to crated peaches, of Georgia's peach belt was stored in orchards or packing swept by a cyclone that did $100,000 houses.

Brody's
GREATEST OF ALL
DOLLAR SALE

300
Trimmed and Sport
Hats

One big lot of hats—Small Hats—Large Hats—Large variety of Styles and Colors—Materials are Stawes—Telfates—Hair Brads—trimmed with lots of flowers and ostrich feathers—not a hat in the big assortment but what is worth many, many times this price. See them in our window.

Come In Early for Best Selection

Your $1 Monday and Tuesday

SHOP IN COMFORT
NO Stairs to Climb
Crawling Elevators and everything here exactly as advertised.

Brody's
54 Chauncy St.

Scientific Starch
Discovery, Linit, Makes Ironing a Pleasure and Helps Preserve Your Fine Fabrics

FREE
Babbitt's Cleanser

A FULL-SIZED CAN OF BABBITT'S CLEANSER

Watch for our ad in the Advertiser, Post and Globe on next Sunday, June 17th

Babbitt's Cleanser
AT YOUR SERVICE
TRADE MARK
COUPON FOR VALUABLE CLEANSER
NET WEIGHT 16 OUNCES

Housewives Glad to Know New Way of Getting Beautiful French Finish in Their Garments

EVERY woman knows how provoking it is to work with starch that forms a thick, sticky jelly when it cools, and smears and clogs, and makes your iron stick when you try to iron.

All these drawbacks to easy, satisfactory work have now been overcome with Linit, the new scientific starch discovery.

Linit is made by an improved process that keeps it a thin paste for hours, even after cooling. It cannot possibly clot or smear.

Linit penetrates the fabric, reinforces the strength of the material, helps prevent wear, and prolongs the life of the fabric.

You will be interested to know that If you cannot obtain LINIT at your grocer communicate with

MAKES COTTON Look and Feel Like Linen

LINIT FOR STARCHING
penetrates Preserves Fabrics

CORN PRODUCTS SALES CO., W. A. Cahoon, Mgr., 47 Farnsworth St., Boston, Mass.
Visit our permanent demonstration at Modern Methods Kitchen, Suite 214, 234 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass.

Certainly Encouraging
MARY GRACE BUTLER.
10 Page street, Revere, Mass.
A check for that amount will be forwarded the winner.

By Cliff Sterrett

52

By Hershfield

I FOUND YOU IN TIME AND I NEED A LOAN. I WENT TO A PARTY A LOT OF MONEY!!

I'M JUST AS BAD OFF AS YOU ARE. I TAKE THIS CUP. I'M OVERDRAWN

JEFF FIELD

By McNamara

ALL OR

GOSH, YOUR FACES
LOOK 'FA MILLER,'
BUT I JUST CAN'T PLACE YOU!

REF. TO MARGARET PACER

By Rube Goldberg

By Segar

RADIO RAGTIME

Hello, Ashes old scout, how you be?
 Bee is right. Go to it. Anymore?
 In remembrance: "Why did P. T. Har-mond have more chance than any-else to get to Heaven?"
 "He had the greatest show on earth."
 Right. "What is the difference between a bouquet of flowers and a bottle of moonshine?"
 "Two calves."
 GuesSED 'em all. You're a smart boy.
 Bye, bye, old thing.

Studio Stuff
 Great artists have no country, said the ecstasitized but impercious third-rate duffer. "The whole world is my town."
 "And all that's lacking I suppose, is merely a little carfare."

By Wm. F. Kirk.

WELL, Bobbie, sed Ma, soon the buttiful Summer will be here, Ma sed, & you can come in the wild-wood, Ma sed, & pick the best of Spring's fairest flora. I ain't going to pick flours no more, I sed, that is O. K. for a May, I sed, but I am a big boy now & will not pick no flours, I sed.

Dear me, sed Ma, wen did you get so big?

Fresh as my mussel, I sed. Do you think it is mans work for anybody with a arm like mine, I sed, to pick flours?

Ma laffed. Why, you littel weezil, sed Ma, you only think you have mussel. You are sum-thing like yure noabel father in that respect, sed Ma.

I have no power to anner-then I have no pour in my good rite arm? sed Pa.

Yes, you are strong enuff, and Ma, but both you & Bobbie thinks you are stronger than what you are. Ma. Ma. My dear old father, when was young, you could have broken either one of us in two (3) sed Ma. My father was a strong man. Yure old pen was stronger than horse reddish, and Pa. There wasent anything weak about him, even his breth, and Pa. It was a good thing, that you was here at time, sed Pa. Those good old high proof breth is moastly a thing of the past, tho, sed Pa. Ma. The smell of the clove has vanished from the land, sed Ma. But reely, Ma sed, my father was a very strong man, and I am strong like him, sed Ma. He shed tears wen I left home to be a soldier, little while, sed Ma to Pa. Ma, Ha, sed Pa, that is a rich one. What do you mean? sed Ma. kind of hard.

MOVIE MADNESS

He—Really, madam, I haven't seen enough of the picture to judge.

Just Released

Reel 1—Summer flannels.
Reel 2—"Fresh Paint."
Reel 3—Ruin.

Reel 1—Park bench by moonlight.
Reel 2—Sighs and silence.
Reel 3—Rice and realism.

Reel 1—A thirst.
Reel 2—A high-sign.
Reel 3—An obituary.

IN OUR HOUSE

On the top floor lives the man who throws his shoes on the floor below him is the fellow with a marathon penograph. On the fourth floor resides the baby who awakes for eighteen hours of the twenty-four. The third floor is the home of the piano teacher, who works during the other eighteen hours. On the second floor lives a married couple who continue to celebrate their battle as anniversary. The first floor houses a hard-hearing radio fan with a triple X amplifier.

In the cellar the janitor sleeps through it all. He thinks they are calling for him.

NEW DEVICE MAKES RADIO PHONING PRIVATE

DISTORTS WORDS OF SPEAKER

Conversation "Unscrambled" and Made Intelligible at Receiving End

New York, June 11.—Conversation by radio telephone can be made as private as that over wires.

This announcement is made by the American Telephone Company, following successful experiments of engineers of the Bell system over the thirty miles of space between Los Angeles and Catalina Island.

The invention consists of an apparatus at the sending end, which transmits the meaningless jumble of sounds into intelligible conversation.

WORKED FOR YEARS. "The wireless 'talker' said, an engineer of the company, 'has given satisfactory two-way transmission day and night throughout the year and connects Catalina through the trunk lines of the Bell system, with every commercial center in the United States.'

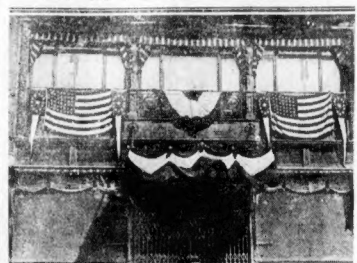

"The Catalina Island radio link is the first to be equipped with the wireless telephone privacy system. Therefore, talks over the Catalina Island link have been picked up by amateur receiving stations.

"The privacy system was designed to remedy this. It is not claimed that the new system is absolutely secret, but at least privacy has been obtained.

NEARLY SECURE. "The new radio equipment, before putting the messages on the air, will distort or scramble them, and no receiving set which is not specially designed or manipulated to unscramble them can obtain anything intelligible.

"While anyone familiar with the system, and possibly an ingenious person not familiar with it, might devise a set which could listen to the system, and a set would be much more complicated than the ordinary set, and the added complication would be of no value except for picking up transmission by the system. It is, therefore, not likely that many people will try it."

PROPER DISPLAY OF U. S. FLAG SHOWN

EMBLEM MUST LIE FLAT

The rules for correct use of the U. S. flag in decorations prescribe it must never be draped or bunched.

PASTOR HAS HIS 12TH; WARNS OF RACE SUICIDE

No family meets the demands of our age that does not produce at least four strong, healthy children to be trained in the best of our schools for civic and religious life.

There you have one of the great principles in the life of Rev. Dr. Edgar J. Helms, pastor-superintendent of the Morgan Memorial. Dr. Helms not only preaches his creed, but practices it.

He rose from a sick bed in a Boston hospital and journeyed to the Church of All Nations at the Morgan Memorial to preach his doctrine of the baptism of his youth child, an incident, incidentally, the child was named Helms seventh son. An unusual feature of the baptism was the fact that the child was baptized by a negro minister of the Church of All Nations, Rev. Thomas Liberty.

His face glowing with pride, Dr. Helms declared himself proud and happy. He then sent a bolt at birth control and race suicide.

"One of the most momentous problems that faces our neighborhood and the world today," he declared, "is the matter of children. France does not fear Germany as her crowded masses so much as she fears the problem in her own borders of birth control in the interests of greed and lust."

He explained that the average number of children in families of his parish is but two per family.

Dr. Helms said the child was baptized by a negro minister of the Church of All Nations, Rev. Thomas Liberty.

REV. DR. E. J. HELMS
Pastor Helms of the Morgan Memorial had another christening in his family. It was his seventh son.

GEO. E. BROCK, HUB BANKER, IS DEAD

George E. Brock, ex-chairman of the Boston School Committee, is dead at his home, No. 39 Lansark road, Brighton, Mr. Brock suffered a shock at nine o'clock Sunday morning. Mr. Brock was president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

Athens—Premier Gonatas, installed by the Greek Revolutionary Committee today denied any intent to proclaim a Republic. Newspapers were ordered not to print anything about the coming election.

RULES ISSUED FOR DISPLAY OF FLAG

J. Philip O'Connell, director of public celebrations for the City of Boston, issued a statement today to all decorators and citizens on the proper manner of displaying the flag on decorating in connection with the convention of the National League of Masonic clubs which commences today.

The flag must never be used for draping or festooning, as festooning can serve for this purpose. In hanging the flag flat the union must be in the upper left hand corner if the stripes are horizontal; in upper right hand corner if stripes are perpendicular.

When curled in parade or placed with other flags, the stars and stripes should be on the right, that is on one's left as you face it.

These rules are necessary in order to render proper respect to the flag.

MISS HAZEL HURD HEADS OPERA CAST

Miss Hazel Hurd, 19 years old, of Glasgow, Montana, will sing the title role in "Carmen" at the Arlington Theatre tonight. This popular opera will be given entirely by opera students, the youngest of whom is Luciana Goddard, 14 years old, of Chestnut Hill. The cast includes Hazel Hurd, Phyllis Erickson, Lillian Smith, Anthony Quatro, Louis Granger, Walter Clambride, Charles Pilgreen, James Lusk, Vincenzo Spolinas and Quiana Sardella.

RELIEF SHIP FOR CAPT. AMUNDSEN

Christians, June 11.—The steamship Plant, having on board a party who will go to the relief of Captain Roald Amundsen if this should be necessary during his flight from Wainwright, Alaska, to Spitzbergen the latter part of this month, arrived in Admitt Bay, Spitzbergen.

NO CALIFORNIA TRAVELER SHOULD BE WITHOUT THIS BOOK

The Chicago and North Western Ry. has just published a new edition of its booklet, "Forty Ways and More to California and the North Coast." It is not a picture book, but it is check-list of interesting information about routes and fares, and shows with the aid of outline maps the territory you can cover. If you are planning a trip to California now or in the near future, it will pay you to get a copy of this book, which may be had free of charge by writing to J. H. Schultz, General Agent, 416 Old South Bldg., 221 Washington St. Phone Congress 3000, Boston, Mass.—Advt.

Luscious Strawberries!

The real, red-ripe Fruit Juice—combined with pure Cane Sugar.

A rich, smooth, full-bodied syrup which, simply when mixed with cold water, makes a drink of wonderfully zestful deliciousness. Easy to make—handy—economical. There's nothing can compare with it!

A Pint makes a GALLON

And, besides Strawberry, you have choice of FIVE OTHER Pure Fruit Flavors: Punch, Raspberry, Lemon, Orange and Lemon-Lime.

Ask for ZA-REX wherever Bottled

PURE DELIGHT!

TRY IT

ZA-REX The GOOD Drink

ARTHUR C. HOLDEN DIES IN MELROSE

Melrose, June 11.—Arthur C. Holden of Washington, D. C., Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue, died at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Holden, here, at 10:15 a. m. today. He entered government service in 1907 in the post office department. He served as commissioner of the model postoffice at the San Francisco Exposition.

PLAN TO PUNISH FOR FAKE ART SALES

Paris, June 11.—Antiquaries meeting here adopted resolutions demanding the strictest investigation of the allegations of fake sales and also declared in favor of punishing the persons guilty.

Just Try an Experiment—

Buy a packet of "SALADA" TEA and see if it is not the most delicious Tea you ever tasted. "Most Tea-Drinker? Think It Is."

A VICTORY for AMERICAN MOTORISTS

The Crude Rubber Monopoly weakened when it came into contact with aroused public sentiment. The press of the country today reflects the determination of the American motorist that tire prices shall stay at a reasonable level—and that America must produce its own rubber.

Firestone

Cuts Tire Prices

10%

Effective June 11

We announce a 10% reduction in tires and tubes effective June 11th. The lowered cost of crude rubber and the special Firestone manufacturing and distribution advantages make this possible.

Firestone factories are organized on a basis of large volume and effective production. Costs are down but quality is at its peak. Stockholder workmen are daily building many thousands of Gum-Dipped Cords—the best tire Firestone ever produced and, we believe, the leader on the market today.

Firestone Cords took the first four places and eight of the ten money positions in the Indianapolis Sweepstakes, May 30th, without a single tire failure.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords have set new standards in mileage, traction, comfort and safety. Car-owners have expressed their approval of the extra value in Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords by increasing their purchases 194% in the past six months.

We have replaced many expensive branches with warehouses. We now have 108 distributing points which are delivering Firestone tires to the consumer at the lowest cost in our history.

Follow the tide of economical tire buying—equip with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords—and learn what Most Miles per Dollar means to you today.

Get a set of these Gum-Dipped Cords from one of the following dealers:

- Brophy & Lamontagne, 220 Columbus Ave.
- Coward Auto Supply Co., Park Sq.
- Federal Garage Co., 467 Brookline Ave.
- Fenway Tire & Supply Co., 446 Huntington Ave.
- Interstate Rubber Co., 392 Newbury St.
- R. W. Harris Tire & Rubber Co., 737 Boylston St.
- M. O. Nutter, 100 Peterboro St.
- O. K. Vulcanizing Co., 25 Broadway.
- J. W. Potter Co., 174 Columbus Ave.
- John J. Watson, 66 Hereford St.
- Eral Lee Tire Co., 196 Brighton Ave., Allston.
- Kilgley Garage, 1686 Commonwealth Ave., Brighton.
- M. & R. Tire Co., 604A Washington St., Brighton.
- Summit Filling Station, 1550 Commonwealth Ave., Brighton.
- Corey Hill Garage, 56 Winchester St., Brookline.
- Vernale Garage, 525 Harvard St., Brookline.
- Washington Garage Co., 224 Washington St., Brookline.
- Fayerweather Garage, 74 Fayerweather St., Cambridge.
- Galvin's Garage, 55 Boylston St., Cambridge.
- Harvard Auto Co., 1230 Mass. Ave., Cambridge.
- W. H. Green, 81, Eliot St., Cambridge.
- Broadway Garage, 456 Broadway, Cambridge.
- Porter Station Garage, 820 Somerville Ave., Cambridge.
- Readson's Garage, 168 Erie St., Cambridge.
- F. A. Store Co., 41 West St., Cambridge.
- Superior Tire Company, 226 Mass. Ave., Cambridge.
- Simon Holzman Tire Co., 60 Walnut St., Chelsea.
- Camden Garage, 121 Bowdoin St., Dorchester.
- Cedar Grove Tire Hospital, 788 Adams St., Dorchester.
- Bowdoin St. Garage & Sales Co., 140 Bowdoin St., Dorchester.
- Dracut Garage, 1861 Dorchester Ave., Dorchester.
- Grove Hall Tire Exchange, 644 Warren St., Dorchester.
- Hardware & Auto Supply Co., 862 Blue Hill Ave., Dorchester.
- Harvey Auto Tire Exchange, 301 Adams St., Dorchester.
- Upham's Corner Vulcanizing Co., 564 Columbia Rd., Dorchester.
- Sven Nyberg Community Garage, 572-584 Saratoga St., East Boston.
- Hyde Park Tire & Supply Co., 1281 Hyde Park Ave., Hyde Park.
- P. H. Quinn, 1357 Blue Hill Ave., Mattapan.
- E. F. Lowell, Walnut St., Newtonville.
- Garden City Tire Sales Co., Newtonville.
- Newton Motor Sales Co., Washington St., West Newton.
- J. J. Quirk, Nonantum Filling Station, 320 Watertown St., Newton.
- Evans Motor Car Co., Newton.
- Battery & Tire Service Co., Newton Center.
- F. H. Reed, Malcolm St., Roslindale.
- City Point Garage, 628 4th St., South Boston.

MOST MILES PER DOLLAR

22 days cruising

An ideal summer outing by sea to Jamaica, Panama and Colombia. Fare $315 and up including side trips. Picture folders on request. Ask your travel agent or

UNITED FRUIT COMPANY
75 State Street, Boston, Mass.

see outings

KEEP YOUR HOME SAFE FOR HIM

British-Nathol kills germs and makes your home really clean. It gets rid of dirt, grease, soap, and all other things. The wonderful liquid is free to use, does not burn, and is for personal hygiene. Buy dealers all over the U. S. and H. B. S.

THE BRITISH-NATHOL CO.
Boston, Mass.

SYLPHO-NATHOL

NOVEL OF
THE YEAR

Family Youth

by Warner Fabian
A Family Doctor

2ND SECTION-HOME NEWS

More Pictures, Comics, Fiction and Features than any other Boston Newspaper

BOSTON AMERICAN

THIS PAPER IS NOT COMPLETE WITHOUT THE FIRST SECTION-GET BOTH

BOSTON, MONDAY, JUNE 11, 1923

FOR DEAD, SCORE HURT BY AUTOS

Murdered Hermit in Broken Romance

FORGERY 2 BANKS CHARGED

Elwyn E. Lucas Accused of Opening Savings Accounts
With "Phony" Checks

Elwyn E. Lucas of Worcester and Boston is being held by the police of Worcester pending the arrival of Inspector George Augusta of Boston with warrant charging forgery and larceny.

According to the inspector, Lucas opened a savings account at the Elliot Savings Bank, No. 152 Dudley street, Roxbury, with a check for $600.75, which also bore Mrs. Perigo's signature.

Mrs. Perigo and the police charged that both signatures are forgeries obtained by tracing Mrs. Perigo's signature on a check for $150 which she gave Lucas' mother at her Seaboard Lake home.

The police say that the accused made several unsuccessful attempts to draw money from both banks, but he was refused because neither of the checks had cleared. They were drawn on the Mechanics National Bank of Worcester.

HUSBAND LURED BY MOTHER, WIFE SAYS
That her missing husband, Charles Owens, was lured away from her by his mother, is the belief of Mrs. Owens of No. 44 Marion street, Dorchester.

Mrs. Owens said she came to this conclusion when she found a letter from her mother-in-law in her husband's clothes. In the letter her mother-in-law urged Owens to desert her, she said.

JOHNSON BETTER
AFTER OPERATION
Dr. David J. Johnson, commander of institutions, who underwent an operation for blood poisoning in the hands, is reported as feeling comfortable and is much improved condition at the Charles City Hospital today.

Dr. D. J. Johnson said that the inmates on Long Island Dr. Johnson cut his wrist. He did not think much of it at first, but blood poisoning quickly developed, and he was ordered to the hospital, where he was operated upon.

CHILD HURT ROLLING DOWN BUNKER HILL
Three-year-old Margaret Herlihy, of 219 Tremont street, Charlestown, rolled down the slope of the mound at Bunker Hill Monument and received a cut on the forehead by contact with the iron fence, for which she was treated at the Revere Hospital.

Wife and Her Baby Vanish

MRS. CAROLINE L. STONE
HARRY A. STONE

An appeal has been made to the Boston American to find Caroline Doyle Stone or any trace of her whereabouts by her husband, Harry Arnold Stone of No. 114 Cabot street, Roxbury. She disappeared last Monday while moving from the farm in Wilmington to their new home in Roxbury. Their five-month-old baby, Rose Marguerite, was with her when they moved.

The last Stone saw of his wife was in Winchester, where he left her and his baby to take the train into Boston. He was told that she had dropped out of sight.

It is alleged by neighbors that shortly after the Stone furniture had departed in a moving van owned by Boston brokers, another van had been backed up to the door and the piano owned by the Summer tenant of the upstairs apartment had been removed.

"I can't understand why she should leave me," Stone said, "I love her and the baby, and want her to return."

DAVIS TO INSPECT FIRST CORPS AREA
Major-General Robert C. Davis, adjutant-general of the U. S. Army, will arrive in Boston Wednesday, to inspect headquarters of the First Corps Area. One problem for decision is the future status of field clerks. Major-General A. W. Brewster, commanding the First Corps Area, is heavily in favor of making the army field clerks warrant officers with advantage of rating.

EVIL TRAIL STRIKE SPREADS

Favoritism Shown British Alleged to Be Cause of Americans' Walkout

Reports that ten members of the crew of the Leviathan had quit and more threatened to follow their example because of alleged discrimination against American waiters on board, came from rebellious members of the crew today.

Men have been sent out by rival steamship companies for the purpose of stirring up trouble to hinder work on our vessel. Shipping agents, they mingle with members of the crew and spread propaganda of discontent," he said.

John P. Bell, one of the waiters on the Leviathan, the president of the striking men against officials of the ship. The discontent among American waiters on the ship is largely due, he said, to discrimination against them in favor of Britishers.

LOSS DAY OFF.
He declared that ten waiters, all Americans, quit work today because they had been compelled to work on their day off to afford a holiday for the stewards, who are Englishmen.

Predict Probe of Leviathan "Joy Ride"

Washington, June 11.—Prediction that there will be "Congressional demands for an explanation of a waste of taxpayer's money" unless Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board "abandons his plan for a million-dollar joy ride" on the Leviathan was made in a published statement today by the Democratic national committee.

Referring to arrangements made for a six-day trial trip for the steamship after her reconsecration for the transatlantic passenger service, it is completed at Boston this month, the statement declared "an investigation of this junket de luxe is certain to be forced by the Democratic Congress."

"Republican politicians of the practical type," the statement said, "are angry at Chairman Lasker for embarking the administration and the country in a costly and unprofitable voyage of his feelings to reach the White House."

These Republicans foresee that the radicals and progressives of their own party will be forced to make drastic cuts in taxes as soon as the next Congress convenes in December. They are angry at Lasker for not Smart and other members and spokesmen of the administration will be expected to defend any such program.

MOONSHINE LIQUOR BLAMED FOR MANY MISHAPS: 2 DRIVERS ARRESTED

Four persons are dead and more than a score were injured in automobile accidents in New England.

Ten of the victims owe their injuries to drunken drivers and there is a suspicion that other of the crashes were due in part to "moonshine."

Two men were under arrest on charges of operating cars while under the influence of liquor.

Two men were fatally injured in Woburn when a machine driven by Patrick Wall, fifty-nine of No. 2 Middlebury street, Woburn, turned turtle after striking the curb at Scott and Main streets.

TWO DEAD IN WOBURN.
Wall died today at Chelsea Memorial Hospital. His companion, Edward Baxter, No. 6 Buell place, Woburn, died almost instantly, while the third in the party, Edward Wall of Prospect street, escaped with slight injuries.

William A. Donahue of No. 115 Hampshire street, Lawrence, and Harry B. Orren, of No. 34 Concord street, Lawrence, are reported in serious condition at Anna Jacques Hospital, Newburyport, as a result of smashing into a car driven by William A. Donahue of Newburyport.

Six persons riding with Arsenault were injured. No one was seriously hurt. Police charge Donahue was drunk and driving at terrific speed. He was arrested.

Mrs. Mary Donahue, sixty-one years old, of No. 71 Norfolk street, Cambridge, died from shock in the Cambridge City Hospital after being struck by an automobile operated by Raymond McInnis, No. 76 Elm street, Cambridge, on Norfolk street.

GARDNER MAN KILLED.
Frank Martin, twenty-eight years old, of No. 23 Chestnut street, was killed when a motorcycle and sidecar which he was trying to operate collided with an automobile at East Broadway and Maynard street, Gardner. Apolo-Gardner, in the sidecar, escaped. The automobile was driven by Joseph Balaban, of No. 34 Rockford street, North Cambridge.

Stephen L. King, a Truman atached to Eugene 25, and James of No. 29 Belport street, Dorchester, and Adolphus Langlois, thirty-three years old, of No. 2 Lyons street, Dorchester, were injured when a car driven by Michael Chisholm, of No. 15 Jess street, Dorchester, crashed into the rear of their car near the South Station. The collision through the windshield. Chisholm was arrested on the charge of operating a car when under the influence of liquor.

Girl Wins Honor at Harvard

Well-Dressed Strangers Seen
Near the Humble Home of
Warwick Tragedy

Warwick, R. I., June 11.—Two well dressed strangers, seen loitering near the squalid shack where James H. Sutton, recluse and really dealer, was found battered to death in his bed, are being sought by police.

While robbery appeared to be the motive for the gruesome crime, there is a possibility that theft of a $500 diamond ring and about $500 in cash may be only a blind to larceny in vestigators.

Today the police were told a word story of how the murdered man had given up his normal way of living to seek solace in the loneliness of Lincoln Park woods after a romance that ended disastrously.

DISMISSED STUDENT.
The story was circulated that years ago Sutton, then reported as a fine student, was jilted by a woman and that he had trouble with "the other man."

The police do not put any great amount of credence in this tale, and believed that they were business men and that he had trouble with "the other man."

The two men said to have been about the Sutton cottage were described as of medium height, mousy and unattractively dressed and to all appearances men of responsibility.

They were so modest and respectable that persons seeing them near the shack were not suspicious and believed that they were business men who had come to consult with the really reputable about property matters.

DRIVE SHARP TRADE.
Sutton had extensive real estate dealings. He held many mortgages on property hereabouts, either in his own name or for persons whom he represented.

He was generally known as a "hard man" and was said to be extremely exacting in demanding payment of interest.

Because of his business dealings he had made a number of enemies around town, but it is not thought that any were so implacable as to take his life.

The slain man was a brother of Walter H. Sutton, assistant of the Adams House, Boston, who engaged Attorney C. T. Richardson of Boston to represent his interests here and to help press the search for the slayer.

Walter Sutton was unable to leave his home because his wife died just a few minutes before he received word of the finding of his brother's battered corpse.

HOPE TO FORGET JILT

Well-Dressed Strangers Seen
Near the Humble Home of
Warwick Tragedy

Warwick, R. I., June 11.—Two well dressed strangers, seen loitering near the squalid shack where James H. Sutton, recluse and really dealer, was found battered to death in his bed, are being sought by police.

While robbery appeared to be the motive for the gruesome crime, there is a possibility that theft of a $500 diamond ring and about $500 in cash may be only a blind to larceny in vestigators.

Today the police were told a word story of how the murdered man had given up his normal way of living to seek solace in the loneliness of Lincoln Park woods after a romance that ended disastrously.

DISMISSED STUDENT.
The story was circulated that years ago Sutton, then reported as a fine student, was jilted by a woman and that he had trouble with "the other man."

The police do not put any great amount of credence in this tale, and believed that they were business men and that he had trouble with "the other man."

The two men said to have been about the Sutton cottage were described as of medium height, mousy and unattractively dressed and to all appearances men of responsibility.

They were so modest and respectable that persons seeing them near the shack were not suspicious and believed that they were business men who had come to consult with the really reputable about property matters.

DRIVE SHARP TRADE.
Sutton had extensive real estate dealings. He held many mortgages on property hereabouts, either in his own name or for persons whom he represented.

He was generally known as a "hard man" and was said to be extremely exacting in demanding payment of interest.

Because of his business dealings he had made a number of enemies around town, but it is not thought that any were so implacable as to take his life.

The slain man was a brother of Walter H. Sutton, assistant of the Adams House, Boston, who engaged Attorney C. T. Richardson of Boston to represent his interests here and to help press the search for the slayer.

Walter Sutton was unable to leave his home because his wife died just a few minutes before he received word of the finding of his brother's battered corpse.

START THIS BIG, NEW STORY TODAY

Mona Fentress, young, beautiful and the wife of a consulting engineer, has been told by her physician, Bob Osterhout, who is in love with her, that she has only a short time to live. Mona gives a gay party, telling Pat to go to bed, but the latter borrows a sister's dress, steals downstair and has "a taste of life." Connie goes to a dance at the club and takes too much punch. She is brought home by Fred Browning in whose room she stayed. Sed Thorpe gives Pat a "real" kiss.

NOW GO ON WITH THIS ENTHRALLING STORY.
Back copies may be secured at the Boston American office free.

CHAPTER VII.

"I WANT to tell you," said Mona, as soon as the door had closed, "about this."

"There isn't any word," returned Osterhout.

"No. There isn't," agreed Mona. "The situation explains itself, doesn't it?" She smiled at him, equally but without hardness.

"It does."

"Are you being my wise doctor or my reproachful friend? Are you thinking to yourself: 'Mona, I wouldn't have thought it of you?' Heavens, if you are—"

"I'm not."

"You mean that you would have thought it of me. How dare you, Bob?" she demanded selfishly.

He did not respond to her railing, which he recognized for the expression of tortured nerves. "I wish you wouldn't talk," he said.

"I will," she retorted mutinously. "It won't hurt me. At worst, it won't hurt me nearly as much as to hold in what I want to say. Bob, was this attack brought on by—by my foolishness?"

"Very possibly. It certainly didn't help any," he replied grimly.

"Suppose I'd died here," she mused. "I very nearly did."

"So I should judge."

"What a scandal there'd have been! And what a text for the pious! 'The wages of sin is death.' Do you believe that, Bob?"

"It's a useful bogey to scare people who are more timid than they are wicked."

"I'm not timid," she proclaimed. "And I don't feel particularly wicked. Only anxious over how this is going to turn out."

"What did you do it for, Mona?" he burst out painfully.

She gave him a sad smile. "Oh, I don't know, Bob. And he begged me so. Poor Sid! He does love me."

"The dirty scoundrel! If he loved you, would he—?"

"Of course he would!" she broke in, with impatient contempt. "Don't indulge in cheap melodrama. It's because people are in love that they take risks like this."

"Then you love him," said Osterhout dolefully.

"I don't know. He sways me. But—I don't think I'm in love with him, as you mean it."

"Yet you—"

"Yet I came here with him. Does that seem so terrible to you?" She spoke in a tone of half-tender mockery.

"I can't understand it, except on the ground that you love him."

"Because you don't understand me. And there are twenty-one different definitions of love."

"Do you understand yourself?"

"Yes! I do," she asserted thoughtfully and boldly. "And I'm not afraid to accept myself as I am. I don't ask my eyes to the picture just because it's my own. I'm not a snob."

"No. You're not that."

"And if I take the chances I'm ready to face the consequences," she said without defiance, but as one who enunciates a principle of life.

"The consequences? Of this?"

"If necessary. It isn't the first time." He winced and shrank. "Ah, I'm sorry if that hurt you!" she cried contentedly.

"Never mind. There are others than me to be thought of."

"You do the thinking, Bob. I'll not up to it."

Continued on Page 13, Column 1.

This Day in History, June 17, 1923

THIS is the anniversary of the birth, in 1774, of John Constable, who founded the modern school of landscape painting. His genius was first recognized in France. Many of his best canvases are in this country.

THE WAYS OF A HUSBAND—By ANN LISLE

A Splendid Sequel to the Famous Story of Wedded Life, "When a Girl Marries"

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Jim and Anne had happened again on a honeymoon spent in the apartment of Betty Winston, looking for the occasion. They go to Dreamworld for a Sunday dinner with Jennie and are met in the grounds by Rosa, who ignores Anne. Rosa advises the discharge of Mabel Stairs to save the big salary. This Anne resents. Evvy helps Anne arrange her apartments and a dinner is given as a housewarming. Anne gives hysterical on receipt of Carlotta's wedding invitation. Carlotta asks for a tele-tele with Anne, and Jim stays in the room.

By Ann Lisle

AT once I reported my success to Jim. I was careful not to say anything over the telephone which might embarrass him or even Rosa if she were right in his office. I merely assured him that his commission had been carried out with great success. He laughed and thanked me, but I was vaguely disappointed that he didn't make a little more fuss over what he must have known was so hard for me to do.

That evening, however, when I arrived at home, I found Jim waiting for me. He followed me to our room and stood awkwardly watching me while I sat down at my dressing table to remove my hat and smooth my hair. He edged as awkwardly and nervously as a boy, and when I had finished and started to rise he came and pulled me back into my little chair. Then standing back of me with his hands on my shoulders, he smiled down at my hair, and he smiled down at my hair, and he smiled down at my hair.

"You're a brick, Little Princess—as square and reliable as a man. But I guess you're less a woman for all that."

"Do you doubt that?" I asked lightly.

Sometimes—Jim gave back, curiously. But I don't let myself dwell on things that bother him. It isn't my way—as I tell you, realize.

Jim jumped. Jim actually jumped. Then pulling himself together, he said calmly:

"I have, and you've something on your dressing table if you'll just use these famous pieces of observation of yours."

I smiled up at him. Then I looked down at the table. And there among the brushes was a long, slim box wrapped in tissue paper. There was no question, it was undoubtedly a jewelry box. With a quick intake of breath, I realized that Jim had never given me a gift of jewelry since that long ago day when he presented me with the pearl ring which came so near proving Daisy's condition of doing.

"Why don't you open it, and see if you like the one I've selected?"

With trembling fingers, I unwrapped the parcel. There on a white satin bed lay a bracelet of small, beautifully matched pearls with tiny circles of gold set between the creamy tinted jewels. It was at once unusual and beautiful. The tears came to my eyes.

"You darling!" I cried. "It's the loveliest thing I've seen in ages. It's just what I want, though I didn't know it. My word—it will dress me up as Carlotta's wedding. It's an article!"

"Don't say that," cried Jim. "Don't say another word. I've deserved something for the way you helped me out today. There isn't much I can do for you. I don't always do what I might."

He spoke with a funny air of having something to make up to me.

For days I couldn't bring myself to wear the pearl bracelet with which Jim surprised me. He told me I'd married to get Rosa an invitation to Carlotta's wedding. Something in his almost stammer-faced air as he gave me the jewel made me look at it with a feeling that it didn't seem like a voluntary gift of love, but like a reward of merit for a service offered.

Telling myself that I was a foolish woman, I did not wear the pearl bracelet continued to seem alien. I couldn't get a sense of possession—not yet one of it. I actually made it my business in life to dress in tailor-made suits.

From morning till night, so the bracelet would be out of wearing and I couldn't be expected to wear it.

Informal Gathering

That one evening when we came from an informal gathering at Dreamworld in Carlotta's honor, Jim worked around to the subject in a manner at once indirect and yet perfectly lucid.

"I wasn't keen for the way you had turned out on tonight, Anne," he murmured as he slipped into his dressing robe and lit a good-smelling pipe, while I sat brushing my hair.

"Don't you like my suit?" I asked innocently. It's one of the most expensive and exclusive but not smooth my hair. He edged as awkwardly and nervously as a boy, and when I had finished and started to rise he came and pulled me back into my little chair. Then standing back of me with his hands on my shoulders, he smiled down at my hair, and he smiled down at my hair, and he smiled down at my hair.

"It's not your style," Jim replied bluntly. He waits to let his wife looking her best. And you don't in blue serge and beaded buttons. Still, it's well to remember it. Still, it's well to remember it. Still, it's well to remember it.

"You certainly have made a study of my points," I laughed.

It was so surprising, asked Jim, that he was so sure of his wife looking her best. And you don't in blue serge and beaded buttons. Still, it's well to remember it. Still, it's well to remember it. Still, it's well to remember it.

To Be Continued Tomorrow

FURNITURE IN HOME

By Marian Moore

HERE is one of these pieces you can use for one purpose in a small home, and for another when you move into a more spacious residence. It is a washstand, drop-leaf serving table, a washstand, drop-leaf serving table, a washstand, drop-leaf serving table.

The deeply fitted, shapely turn of the legs, the beautiful finish of the table, and its excellent workmanship.

Why don't you open it, and see if you like the one I've selected?

With trembling fingers, I unwrapped the parcel.

There on a white satin bed lay a bracelet of small, beautifully matched pearls with tiny circles of gold set between the creamy tinted jewels. It was at once unusual and beautiful. The tears came to my eyes.

"You darling!" I cried. "It's the loveliest thing I've seen in ages. It's just what I want, though I didn't know it. My word—it will dress me up as Carlotta's wedding. It's an article!"

"Don't say that," cried Jim. "Don't say another word. I've deserved something for the way you helped me out today. There isn't much I can do for you. I don't always do what I might."

He spoke with a funny air of having something to make up to me.

For days I couldn't bring myself to wear the pearl bracelet with which Jim surprised me. He told me I'd married to get Rosa an invitation to Carlotta's wedding. Something in his almost stammer-faced air as he gave me the jewel made me look at it with a feeling that it didn't seem like a voluntary gift of love, but like a reward of merit for a service offered.

Telling myself that I was a foolish woman, I did not wear the pearl bracelet continued to seem alien. I couldn't get a sense of possession—not yet one of it. I actually made it my business in life to dress in tailor-made suits.

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Magazine Page

Dan Gets a Snap

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

THE HE MAN

By George Agnew Chamberlain

WHEN they arrived at the river, there being but three natives in their reduced following, Mungo promptly took his place as one of the four porters to Margaret. There was something about her, however, even in part by a white man that seemed to appeal to the rugged sense of honor.

But Andre's clear laughter still rang out. "Oh," she cried when she could speak. "The clever. I didn't realize how ridiculous you were until he laughed!" She let herself go again. Mungo glared at her.

"And you were brutal," she continued. "You pulled his tail!" She pulled his tail to make him shut up. "Shut up," said Mungo. "I wish—"

Opened Her Mouth

Andre's eyes were fixed on Mungo. "You wish you could make me shut up. Well, you can't. I'm going to laugh all I like. Listen!"

She opened wide her mouth for a stage. "Ha! Ha! Ha!" but I never got out. Mungo threw his arms around her and snatched her by the hair. His lips came close and closer to hers. In his eyes was an eager, unappeased look. Please don't be begged.

Andre glanced down her nose at the two. "You said that they had hated in their advance on her and decided to struggle free from her embrace. 'Why shouldn't I?' she asked aggressively. 'What is there about this savage old river that has you—has you bluffed?'"

"A lot of things," began Mungo, his eyes shifting. "Oh," broke in Andre. "I don't want to hear about the snake and the cross and the eagle. I've digested those. Tell me, what you saw—"

Andre's eyes were fixed on Mungo. "You wish you could make me shut up. Well, you can't. I'm going to laugh all I like. Listen!"

She opened wide her mouth for a stage. "Ha! Ha! Ha!" but I never got out. Mungo threw his arms around her and snatched her by the hair. His lips came close and closer to hers. In his eyes was an eager, unappeased look. Please don't be begged.

Andre glanced down her nose at the two. "You said that they had hated in their advance on her and decided to struggle free from her embrace. 'Why shouldn't I?' she asked aggressively. 'What is there about this savage old river that has you—has you bluffed?'"

"A lot of things," began Mungo, his eyes shifting. "Oh," broke in Andre. "I don't want to hear about the snake and the cross and the eagle. I've digested those. Tell me, what you saw—"

Andre's eyes were fixed on Mungo. "You wish you could make me shut up. Well, you can't. I'm going to laugh all I like. Listen!"

She opened wide her mouth for a stage. "Ha! Ha! Ha!" but I never got out. Mungo threw his arms around her and snatched her by the hair. His lips came close and closer to hers. In his eyes was an eager, unappeased look. Please don't be begged.

Andre glanced down her nose at the two. "You said that they had hated in their advance on her and decided to struggle free from her embrace. 'Why shouldn't I?' she asked aggressively. 'What is there about this savage old river that has you—has you bluffed?'"

"A lot of things," began Mungo, his eyes shifting. "Oh," broke in Andre. "I don't want to hear about the snake and the cross and the eagle. I've digested those. Tell me, what you saw—"

Andre's eyes were fixed on Mungo. "You wish you could make me shut up. Well, you can't. I'm going to laugh all I like. Listen!"

She opened wide her mouth for a stage. "Ha! Ha! Ha!" but I never got out. Mungo threw his arms around her and snatched her by the hair. His lips came close and closer to hers. In his eyes was an eager, unappeased look. Please don't be begged.

Andre glanced down her nose at the two. "You said that they had hated in their advance on her and decided to struggle free from her embrace. 'Why shouldn't I?' she asked aggressively. 'What is there about this savage old river that has you—has you bluffed?'"

"A lot of things," began Mungo, his eyes shifting. "Oh," broke in Andre. "I don't want to hear about the snake and the cross and the eagle. I've digested those. Tell me, what you saw—"

Andre's eyes were fixed on Mungo. "You wish you could make me shut up. Well, you can't. I'm going to laugh all I like. Listen!"

She opened wide her mouth for a stage. "Ha! Ha! Ha!" but I never got out. Mungo threw his arms around her and snatched her by the hair. His lips came close and closer to hers. In his eyes was an eager, unappeased look. Please don't be begged.

Andre glanced down her nose at the two. "You said that they had hated in their advance on her and decided to struggle free from her embrace. 'Why shouldn't I?' she asked aggressively. 'What is there about this savage old river that has you—has you bluffed?'"

"A lot of things," began Mungo, his eyes shifting. "Oh," broke in Andre. "I don't want to hear about the snake and the cross and the eagle. I've digested those. Tell me, what you saw—"

Andre's eyes were fixed on Mungo. "You wish you could make me shut up. Well, you can't. I'm going to laugh all I like. Listen!"

She opened wide her mouth for a stage. "Ha! Ha! Ha!" but I never got out. Mungo threw his arms around her and snatched her by the hair. His lips came close and closer to hers. In his eyes was an eager, unappeased look. Please don't be begged.

Andre glanced down her nose at the two. "You said that they had hated in their advance on her and decided to struggle free from her embrace. 'Why shouldn't I?' she asked aggressively. 'What is there about this savage old river that has you—has you bluffed?'"

"A lot of things," began Mungo, his eyes shifting. "Oh," broke in Andre. "I don't want to hear about the snake and the cross and the eagle. I've digested those. Tell me, what you saw—"

BEST PATTERNS 10c.

YOUR CHOICE OF LATEST STYLES

The Boston American offers today more of its new and stylish dress patterns at a price never before equalled elsewhere. It will cost from 15c to $1 to duplicate these patterns anywhere else. Orders MUST be on OFFICIAL COUPON.

A SEAT AND SIMPLE STYLE

Pattern 2655 is shown in this design. It is cut in four sizes, 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size will require 2 1/2 yards of 27-inch material.

Chambray, gingham, lawn, percale, linen, pongee, tulle, silk, voile, and batiste may be used to make this dress. Stitches in yarn or floss, edging or embroidery will be attractive for decoration.

When a simple dress is made of the face is cleaned with cold cream, which is rapidly kept away from the eyes and lashes. They may be given a hearty rub with a wash cloth, but that is all. And that "oh!" is most inadequate.

Morning and night, bathe your eyes. To do this fill your cup with warm water and hold it over each eye for a few seconds. Wink rapidly with the water is well disturbed, then very gently dry your eyes and lashes.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

A CHARMING PLAY DRESS

Pattern 2655 is here illustrated. The pattern is cut in five sizes, 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size will require 2 1/2 yards of 27-inch material.

Drill, crash, cretonne, linen, percale, cotton, pongee and chambray are appropriate for this design.

AN "OLD FRIEND WITH A NEW FACE"

3597. A guinea dress is a necessity in the wardrobe of every little maid, and to have it in the popular suspender style, with the friendly plaid skirt, an comfortable and becoming is to have the friend that stays. This style may be made of crepe, pongee or voile for the guinea. It is cut in "all of one material" such as chambray or chambray.

The pattern is cut in four sizes, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size will require 1 1/2 yards of 27-inch material for the guinea, and 1 1/2 yards of 48-inch material for the "dress."

3586

3597

3586

3597

3586

ABOUT YOUR BEAUTY

By Maria Jeriza

To complete and protect the beauty of your eyes, your eyebrows must be thick, soft, clean, even in growth.

The first requisite for beautiful eyes is cleanliness. These days—trays for eyebrows and eyelashes really are traps—should be washed and brushed as scrupulously and often as the rest of the body—or even oftener.

Let us say a hasty toilet is made or the face is cleaned with cold cream, which is rapidly kept away from the eyes and lashes. They may be given a hearty rub with a wash cloth, but that is all. And that "oh!" is most inadequate.

Morning and night, bathe your eyes. To do this fill your cup with warm water and hold it over each eye for a few seconds. Wink rapidly with the water is well disturbed, then very gently dry your eyes and lashes.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

ELECTRIC WAVES

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Reading every day your articles which are very interesting to me, I wish to ask whether electric waves go through buildings, steel pipes, even mountains, as you say—should be washed and brushed as scrupulously and often as the rest of the body—or even oftener.

Let us say a hasty toilet is made or the face is cleaned with cold cream, which is rapidly kept away from the eyes and lashes. They may be given a hearty rub with a wash cloth, but that is all. And that "oh!" is most inadequate.

Morning and night, bathe your eyes. To do this fill your cup with warm water and hold it over each eye for a few seconds. Wink rapidly with the water is well disturbed, then very gently dry your eyes and lashes.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Copyright, 1923, by The Press Syndicate, Inc.

Don't let the Box get Empty!

Don't let the Box get Empty!

Don't let the Box get Empty!

Don't let the Box get Empty!

Don't let the Box get Empty!

Don't let the Box get Empty!

Don't let the Box get Empty!

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

Not a Biennial

SPORTING BOSTON AMERICAN

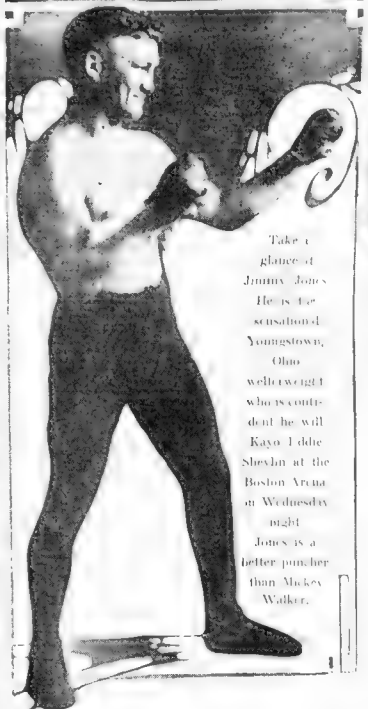

PAT MCCARTHY STILL COMPLAINING
Pat McCarthy is grumbling the world. Ham-bone Kelly is afraid to fight him. All because he is 40 per cent of the records for a McCarthy book Police!

TOM GIBBONS CUTS DOWN TRAINING SO AS TO PUT ON WEIGHT

ST. PAUL BOY HAS BUILT UP KAYO

Shelby Must Be a King
Gibbons does not believe a king from the south.
He will have two more tries of 2 than Jim Jones, who was the first to beat him. He will have the world title.

Here's Jimmy Jones Boy Who Beat Shevlin

Take a glance at Jimmy Jones. He is the sensational Youngstown, Ohio welterweight who is confident he will kayo Eddie Shevlin at the Boston Arena on Wednesday night. Jones is a better puncher than Mackey Walker.

QUINCY LEAGUE FIGHT IS CLOSE

By ART CARLEY
The fight between Jimmy Jones and Eddie Shevlin is expected to be a close one. Jones is a better puncher than Mackey Walker.

Selections for the Race Tracks

RAISING TOTAL CONSENSUS
The selections for the race tracks are as follows: ...

EXTERMINATOR AFTER RECORD

The exterminator is after the record. He will have two more tries of 2 than Jim Jones, who was the first to beat him.

Leading Home Run Hitters of Season

The leading home run hitters of the season are as follows: ...

WARD WAS FIRST COLLEGIATE TO PITCH CURVE

Ward was the first collegiate pitcher to throw a curve ball. He was the first to do so.

SCORED 22 KNUCKLES IN ROW ON REEFER HOME

With two more tries of 2 than Jim Jones, who was the first to beat him.

YOUNGSTOWN WELTER IS A POWERFUL HITTER

By JACK CONWAY
The Youngstown welterweight is a powerful hitter. He is a better puncher than Mackey Walker.

He is a powerful hitter. He is a better puncher than Mackey Walker. He is a better puncher than Mackey Walker.

JONES BRAYS MATHEWS GAVE HIM DECISION

Jones brays Mathews. He gave him the decision. He is a better puncher than Mackey Walker.

Five thousand grandstand seats for the Boston College Holy Cross baseball game will go on sale this morning at the rate of $1.00. A few boxes will be sold for $2.00. These seats are center grandstand and are to be sold to the public.

While they sat at the following address: North & Union Sts., Boston College, Holy Cross, the following were seated: Warner, Partridge, and the Winchester store.

"What a difference just a few cents make!"

The most skillful blend in cigarette history

Something happened back in 1903 to change the smoking habits of many thousands of men. That something was the introduction of Latima—the original Turkish Blend cigarette.

Latima has stayed. For twenty years, Latima has not been equalled for mildness, smoothness and untiring good taste. Fatima is unquestionably the most skillful blend in cigarette history.

FATIMA

—a mild cigarette

LIGHT & MYRA 1 1/2 C

AN

It has been an inspiration to be in Boston and I have learned much while here.—Rev. Harvey Foo, Ding Huang, China.

When Clergymen Disagree

What Shall the Humble Layman Think?
Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The Reverend Dr. Fosdick, Baptist preacher, is the man that W. J. Bryan and some others wanted to put out of the pulpit. He preached to thirteen hundred on Sunday. His church seats only 1,888. His text was: "How Many Times Shall I Adjure Thee That Thou Tell Me Nothing but That Which Is True in the Name of the Lord?"

He says clergymen are afraid to tell the truth—meaning about evolution and such things. He, Dr. Fosdick, says the Bible must be interpreted in the light of present scientific knowledge. He would "prove all things hold fast that which is good." W. J. Bryan would drive him out of the church. Dr. Fosdick did resign, but his congregation would not let him go.

The Reverend and very distinguished Dr. van Dyke talked about "the perpetual crisis in the church." He blamed Mr. Bryan very severely for compelling the Presbyterian Church to sign the total abstinence pledge. To say that the use of wine is sinful is a lie and contradicts the Bible, says the Rev. Mr. van Dyke.

We all are inclined to twist our religions and our texts to suit our own opinions. W. J. Bryan detests Darwin because Darwin didn't believe that in six days hundreds of thousands of varieties of microbes, insects, earthworms, venomous serpents, sinuators, perodactyls, etc., were miraculously created. Mr. Bryan would almost deny that the earth is round, since the Bible mentions the angels "standing at the four corners, how can it be round?" But Mr. Bryan does not hesitate to denounce the use of wine, although Christ himself changed water into wine by a miracle, that the wedding guests might have wine to drink instead of plain water.

Bryan thinks he knows more about evolution than Darwin, also that he knows more about wine than the founder of Christianity knew.

He is probably mistaken in both opinions.

One Married Lady Student

What Do You Think of Her?
Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Mrs. Clay, living in Newark, graduates at Barnard College with honors in modern languages and at the top in some other branches. This she did without neglecting her three children or her husband or her housework, doing most of her studying on the railroad and street cars going to and from the college.

That's a sample of woman's "innate inferiority" that might interest some foolish men.

Women crave knowledge; they are willing to work and deny themselves for it, and they will make any sacrifice to educate their children.

Twelve public schools had a spelling bee. These are the names of the six best spellers, all girls, with a score of 890 out of a possible 900, showing complete command of the English language: Paskowitz, Yommer, Goldstein, Luft, Zepf, Weisenthal. These names sound foreign to our ears. Some of them might interest our old friend Henry Ford.

Germany's Bill

Chief Danger Is That Golden Goose Will Die
Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Germany seems to be gradually drawing near a settlement with the allies. For the latter the danger is that their golden goose will die financially before they get any more of her eggs.

The proposition now is that Germany shall pay three hundred million gold dollars every year. That sounds bigger than it is. It is less than the cost of a big army and navy. Germany isn't allowed to have either. What the allies want are war reparations will pay the allies' bill—perhaps.

Three hundred million dollars a year is $5 in gold for every German man, woman and child. It's enough to build the Panama Canal every year. How will Germany get the gold? By selling to us and underselling our people. We have most of the gold.

When Strikes Hit All People

Union Labor Suffers
Copyright, 1923, Star Company

A strike in the brick yards causes scarcity of bricks and may stop building, just as the bricklayers succeed in getting their $15 a day, with a two-year guarantee, from many employers. That's New York's labor union news.

Strikes by electrical workers, trying to help other striking workmen, may tie up transportation in a great city. That's another piece of labor union news, farther west.

The strike question is a difficult one. A strike injures workingmen, inconveniences and annoys the entire public, which is not responsible for the quarrel. A third prevents building schools. It should be possible to find some system of arbitration that would enable the nation to enjoy its property without any tump. Hard to find honest arbitrators? Hard, perhaps, but not impossible.

Mr. Hirshfield Sees a Plot

Some Comfort for Him
Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Mr. David Hirshfield, high spirited, patriotic official in the government of New York city, has discovered a plot. The British Empire it seems has persuaded American writers of history to tone down the early villainies of England. England, of course, is the villain, but you can hardly blame her for trying not to lose the United States. The North refused to lose the Southern States.

Mr. Hirshfield thinks he detects "a drive to make America a part of the British Empire." Such a drive should be exposed. However this may comfort Mr. Hirshfield, London is apt to become the European office of the United States long before the United States becomes a part of the British Empire.

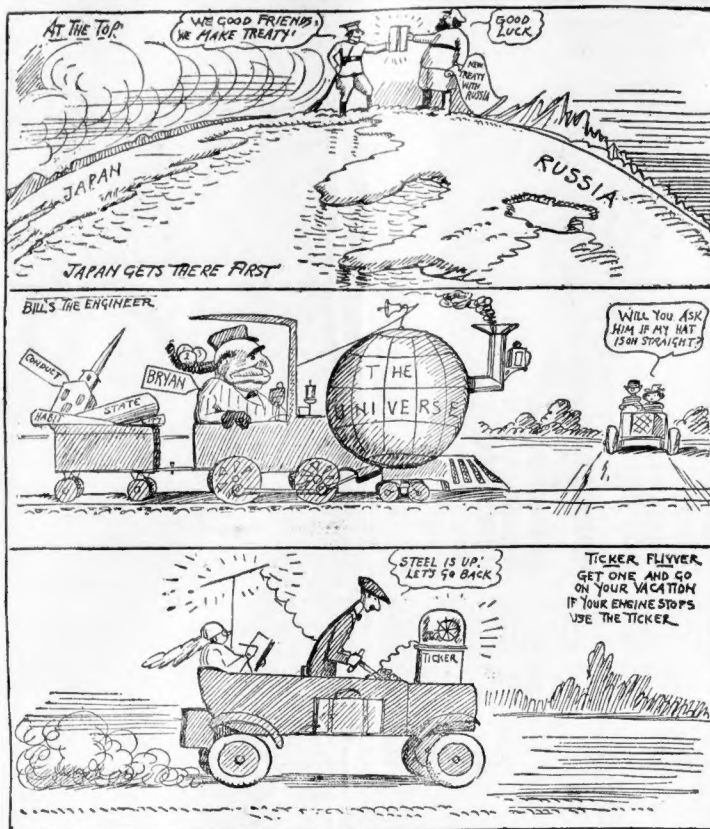

BOSTON AMERICAN

Largest Evening Circulation in New England—June 11, 1923

I See by the Papers

By T. E. Powers

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

FRENCHMEN MADE FIRST AUTO

PARIS, June 11.—The automobile was not invented by Daimler, the German, in 1886, as has been claimed until now, but by George Belmont, a Frenchman, who took out a patent for a gasoline automobile then actually running in the year 1885.

Belmont's patent has been discovered, numbered 174,749, in the archives of the French Patent Registry office, dated October 21, 1885.

Daimler died a millionaire, having known how to profit from his invention. Belmont is still living in a small town near Clermont-Ferrand, existing on a y old-age pension.

Lame Boy Needs Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a boy eighteen years old, and I am lame. I would like to find some clothes for me. I am tall and thin and wear trousers thirty-one or thirty-two inches in length. I never had a new suit, so I don't know the size. My family is a large one, and we find it hard to live, not to speak of clothes. I hope to hear from you soon, so I can go to work looking good. J. K.

Wants Magazines

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a young girl of seventeen and through ill-health cannot do any work. Most of the time I have to sit in a chair alone all day, and it gets very tiresome. I will very deeply appreciate it if you kind reader could send me a few magazines and books. B. K.

Collars Offered

Editor Helping Hand:

I have seven soft collars, size 15, that I will send to the gassed war veteran who asked for collars among other things. I got some fine books through the Helping Hand that help me wonderfully in my studies. H. A. W.

Clothes for Boys

Editor Helping Hand:

My brother has two boys about thirteen to fifteen years old, and their clothes do not go very out.

THE VOICE OF NEW ENGLAND

No Attention Paid to Anonymous Communications

Training Camps

Editor Boston American:

I feel that there is nothing I can do at this time to better my service to my country than to ask you, through the National Security League, to bring before the young men of America the splendid opportunities that are being offered the youth of this great country through the Citizens Military Training Camps, which are soon to open throughout the country.

These camps offer not only a limited course in rudimentary military training with outdoor activities, such as various sports and athletics, but a splendid chance to learn just what real American citizenship means and the responsibility that goes with it.

MAJOR A. P. SIMMONDS, Chairman Committee on Citizens' Military Training Camps, National Security League.

Limited Stops

Editor Boston American:

In your issue of June 8, John Prentiss offers a good suggestion—running Brighton-Newton street cars express to Harvard avenue. Why not do the same on the Lake street-Commonwealth avenue line? It formerly was done on both lines in rush hours with success, but for some reason known only to Boston Elevated officials, who probably do not use these cars, the plan was abandoned. GEORGE RUSSELL, Allston.

WORDS FROM THE LIPS OF WISE MEN

EXPERIENCE without learning is better than learning without experience.

The first faults are those that commit them, the second those that permit them.

We carry our neighbors' failings in sight—we throw our own over our shoulders.

Conversation enriches the understanding, but solitude is the school of genius.

He will never be dull to strangers who joins the sport with his own family.

It is for the poor little ones that can't get around like other children. MRS. P. M. P.

Thank you. You have been sent Mrs. J. E. E.'s address.

Clothes for Miss D. H.

Editor Helping Hand:

I would be glad to help Miss D. H. by sending her some things which she would be able to use. I have two sweaters, a skirt, a little white blouse and some stockings. Kindly send her address. MRS. R. G.

Thank you. Her address has been sent you.

Other Offers

Mrs. J. F. S. Medford—Help for S. A. D. and Mrs. D. H. Mrs. A. N. Dorchester—Two pairs of shoes, almost new, for C. H. Mrs. J. D. Portland, Me.—Coat, two caps, underwear and other things for Mrs. C. E. H.'s husband. E. S. N. Quincy—Magazines for P. J. G. J. J. Arlington—Package of cloth for rug for Mrs. J. M. H. M. J. A. T. Y. F. Kent—Pineapple for Mrs. A. B. S. R. R. Brookline—Books for T. O. P.

Mrs. A. M. Newport, R. I.—Two suits and a pair of shoes and other things for G. A. F. Mrs. E. M. F. Foster—Some clothes for Mrs. M. D. J. M. E. H. West

Will Help Mrs. J. E. E.

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the address of Mrs. J. E. E. as I feel I want to do a little for her. I had an automobile, so I could have sent her a little car, but I will try to send her little eight-year-old girl who has in-laid park for a long time. They are almost barefooted, and are in Charitable associations in Boston, exclusive of private hospitals, number 217, with property owned amounting to $40,669,803.

AROUND THE WORLD IN EIGHTY SECONDS

By Herbert Kaufman

COLORADO and Texas sit in Carnegie Hall and hear Julius H. Barnes deliver an address. Which shows that man can do things nature can't. Thunder has no such voice.

Hertzian waves are a human conquest. Science itself shrugged an incredulous shoulder when Nicola Tesla made the comparatively recent prophecy that sound would some day penetrate mountains.

A million persons listened while Barnes talked. The ears of the world could have been packed into the same auditorium.

For the first time all the big broadcasting stations of the country sang in chorus. Long-distance telephone wires linked them together. A mere makeshift of magic. Single enunciators are preparing to reach around the earth.

The success of the experiment foreshadows clocks at Arlington and Greenwich striking accurate hours in the jungle and at the poles; presidential messages delivered synchronously to Congress and to the four corners of the continent; the end of sectionalism and eventually a laid curse of Babel.

Wireless is destined to compel a universal language—and will teach it. The air's the new road to knowledge.

Don Quixote Sticks to His Windmill

Mr. Harding, insisting that we may join the League of Nations without endangering independence of attitude or of action, tells Bishop Gailor that no President can long adhere to the idea of a politically isolated America.

The Republican party is not united in that opinion. Senator Watson finds twenty-two conferees unconvinced by White House views. The next election will discover at least 16,000, 000 voters of contrary mind. International bangles are poor arguments for further meddling in other people's business.

When powers find a way to handle dogs in the reparations mangle, discard marked cards, or are united on any important issue, leagues and alliances may again be of local interest. They're simply salutary warnings now.

"What a Good Boy Am I!"

An Amsterdam avenue trolley runs ill, leaps the track and smashes three floors out of a tenement. One person is killed and seven injured. The brakes failed to hold. Company officials should have been arrested instead of the motor man, he wasn't responsible for an unmisappreciated car. Manhandling corporations must be taught to keep their equipment in proper order. Safety has prison claims over dividends.

A. C. Bedford, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, fears that Washington is about to go too far with regulatory legislation. He is for the supervision of trade practices to the extent that an umpire enforces the rules of a game.

Despite Mr. Bedford's theory that Federal authority is questionable when it extends to the confiscation of property, Congress, whenever compelled to defend common rights against profiteering and oppression, can and shall deal with private concerns as emergency requires.

Mr. Bedford credits oil companies with oil earnings to efficient management and intelligent manufacturing. Automobiles, paying constantly higher prices for their gas, while Standard Oil stockholders as consistently pocket outrageous stock and cash dividends, aren't so sure of that.

The Passing of Wisdom Teeth

A London scientist claims that people aren't using all their brains. That isn't news. He discovers that evolution has so narrowed the palate that soon there'll be insufficient room for full dentition.

Thousands of us are already without wisdom teeth—stewmen especially.

A jockey, too heavy for steeplechasing, reduces his weight twenty pounds by persistent fasting and violent exercise, rides his mount to the winning post and topples dead from the saddle.

Ladies, kindly note the incident and don't strain your hearts by semi-starvation. Nature knows her job better than you.

Some humans were meant to be stout. When you deprive the body of all fattening foods you likewise rid it of necessary elements and thereby invite disaster. Besides, what makes you believe that a living skeleton is an attractive creature?

Physicians are safer guides than fashion designers. Don't take liberties with your constitution without medical advice.

Let style wait until health.

The Three Wishes

His name was Jones, or, if you prefer, let it be Smith or Brown. Along with lots of other fool folk, he was constantly wishing for the roses in the yard next door and the job of the man across the street, and the money of the banker at the corner.

So one fine morning in popped a member of the Wizards' Union with the usual cantation and conventional proffer of three wishes.

"But first I want to warn you," remarked the stranger from nowhere, "that you're much better off than you imagine."

"A few thousand years ago a grandfather of mine did a favor for a man named Mides, and since then there's a tradition in our family that you can't satisfy any mortal. Pick out your three wishes."

"I want Jones' money," (or Smith or Brown) could get into action, he felt a violent pain in his left bicuspid and another in the pit of the stomach, and a terrific twinge in his right leg.

"My time is limited," remarked the stranger, "hurry and make your demands. What would you rather have than anything in the world?"

"I wish that this damned tooth would stop aching; that the pain in my stomach would cease and that this confounded rheumatism would go away!"

What would you have asked for?

Copyright, 1923, by King Features Syndicate and Herbert Kaufman.